

About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

WE GOT OUT the road maps and gave them deep study.

That was more than two weeks ago because the vacation was just getting ready to start and yesterday I was back on the job for the first time.

We had two alternatives.

Would we go west, through beautiful lake country, to a destination?

Or would we go south, through beautiful forest lands and across the beautiful, clear Ohio into the Land of Hacadap spelled backwards?

We finally decided on the latter, that we'd go to Paducah to cash our Top Value Stamps instead of to Carbondale.

That was about the extent of our travelling on this vacation for various and sundry reasons although Timotheus got into the custody of the law for about a night and a day.

And it was real fascinating custody, for I went with Guthrie Alexander and Roy Lane, state policemen, and Bill Weber, a nice guy, to an Ohio river fishing camp.

The boys have a fishing camp on the Illinois side of the river up north of Golconda just a few hundred yards up from where Grand Pierre empties in, with all the comforts of home except electricity and a lot of fine things you don't have at home like long barges going by and the Delta Queen going by late at night with all its lighted magnificence.

Don't go down to visit the boys; let them take you to the place. The camp must be the reason for the expression "out of this world" because that's just about what it is.

You've got to leave your car several miles away and go by boat (motorboat preferred) for quite a distance down Grand Pierre and then up the river, because that's the best way to go unless you have a helicopter with pantaloons or canteens or pontoons or whatever the word is.

It's a funny thing, but any time I go fishing the other guys drag 'em in with at least a semblance of regularity but ol' Timmo always is dropping in his line and the closest thing to a strike is an underwater log.

We fished up and down Grand Pierre and boys with the proper licenses ran their lines in the river.

I MAINLY wanted to rest on this vacation and got lots of it; but would have had more if that dog-gone grass would have stopped growing.

I had planned to lie around and listen to and watch the Cardinal baseball games.

Up to the time of my two-week retirement the Red Birds had been going great and were nested in first place. But when ol' Timmo had the time to relax and listen they just about had me crying because of their tailspin.

But by Sunday they had recuperated sufficiently that I had recuperated enough, also, that I was able to come to work Monday. And here I am.

Voters Approve Construction, Site For Unit School

Work on a new school building for Independence Community Consolidated School District 53 will get underway early this fall, a member of the board of education has announced.

Patrons of the district, in an election held Saturday, approved the proposed location and construction of the modern school building. The building will be located near the present Mitchellville school.

At Saturday's election the proposal was approved 192 to 31. There were 11 spoiled ballots.

In approving the building construction patrons gave the board of education authority to sell $120,000 in bonds, however, the board members believe the construction can be accomplished for $110,000 and assured the patrons that only the amount of bonds absolutely necessary to pay for construction be sold.

Midland Securities of Chicago will handle the bond issue, it has been announced and Gatewood and Fields of Mt. Vernon are the architects.

Four Men, Two Women Accused of Kidnaping Sailor in Robbery Spree

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Federal authorities set arraignment today for four men and two women accused of kidnaping a sailor and forcing him to drive them on a robbery spree from Washington, D. C., to St. Louis.

One of the men was arrested Monday night at Edwardsville, Ill., and the other five members were seized in Alton, Ill., according to W. H. Williams, FBI agent in charge here.

Richard Houschins, 25, said he was accosted by the six near the Anacosta Naval Base on the outskirts of Washington. The group commandeered his white Cadillac and forced him at gunpoint to drive them to St. Louis, the sailor said. The six staged a number of robberies en route, Houschins said, before forcing him out of the car at Lambert Municipal Air Field in St. Louis. Houschins' car was recovered at Edwardsville.

Arrested by Edwardsville police and turned over to the FBI for questioning was James H. Hammond, 30, Cottage Hills, Ill.

Captured later at Alton were Clude L. Hammons, 22, Baughman, Ky., Louis J. Holguin, 21, Turtle Creek, Pa., Burgess M. Dunn, 19, Anderson, Ind., Mary E. Itri, 31, Boston, and Ruth Jean McGuire, 27, Boston.

The women were picked up in a hotel by two Alton plainclothes policemen. Three of the men were arrested when a nearby police squad spotted them loitering near the plainclothesmen's auto.

Police said Hammons was carrying a .25 caliber automatic pistol. He also was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Marks Alexander, Springfield, authorized the filing of complaints against the six, charging them with kidnap and auto theft. He recommended $15,000 bond for each of them.

Houschins, who lives in Petersburg, Va., was brought here from St. Louis to identify the suspects. He is an air technician second class in the Navy and comes from a wealthy family.

Skips Bond in Hardin County

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill.—A man who was arrested Sunday in a roundup of illegal liquor retailing served notice on the law Monday that he "had left the state with no intention of returning."

Theodore Frailey, 37, was taken into custody at his place a mile north of Cave-in-Rock on Ill. 1 by a group of policemen led by State Police Lt. Walter Sauerwein and Hardin County Sheriff William H. Ferrell. He was charged with selling liquor unlawfully and running a gambling establishment. Trial was set for 1 p. m. Monday.

Frailey, who was convicted on a similar charge in March 1955, didn't show. His lawyer, Trafton Dennis of Harrisburg, said Frailey had left the state. If found guilty, Frailey could have been fined only $2,000, the amount of his bond, and sentenced also to a year in jail.

The raid Sunday also brought Lon Ashford, 74, of Rosiclare, who pleaded guilty before Hardin County Judge J. H. Hosick Jr. on a charge of selling liquor illegally. He was fined $150 plus $30 costs. It was his first offense.

Ashford was arrested by plain clothes detectives who purchased $480 worth of beer from him. They also confiscated wine, beer and 78 pints of whiskey. The judge ordered the liquor destroyed.

Reports of the drowning state motorcycle patrolman Homer Wallace said that he saw Patton's car strike another machine in pursuit Alton. He started in pursuit and the chase down busy Broadway ended on a dead-end street at the river.

Wallace said that Patton leaped from his car and ran to the river. Wallace fired a warning shot, then a second that struck the youth in the knee.

Patton swam to a moored barge, then dived under it, where he drowned. He was an employee of the McDonnell Aircraft Corp.

Blame Eisenhower

House-Senate Conferees Slash $2 Billion from Defense Money Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators today blamed President Eisenhower for the more than two billion slash in the defense budget made by a Senate-House conference committee.

They said the administration undercut them last week by issuing statements that the armed forces could get along with less money than originally thought.

The comments came mostly from some Senate Democrats who had fought earlier for restoration of House cuts in the Senate. But GOP Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.) also blamed the administration statements.

The House-Senate conference committee Monday hammered out a compromise $33,759,850,000 defense money bill carrying $2,368, 150,000 less than Eisenhower originally requested.

The measure, by far the biggest appropriations bill of the session, now goes to the House and Senate for the final approval which would send it to the President for his signature.

The money, added to funds left over from previous years, would give the military services about 68 billion dollars during the current 12 months to finance the cost of their operations and buy new atomic-age weapons.

The compromise would give the Air Force $15,930,220,000 compared with the President's request for $17,400,000,000. The Navy would get $9,866,355,000 compared with $10,300,000,000 and the Army $7,264,550,000 compared with $9,100,000,000.

Grill Sheppard Suspect

Cleveland Authorities Claim Convict's Slaying Story is Phony

DE LAND, Fla. (AP)—Cleveland authorities announced today after questioning a convict who "confessed" he might have killed Marilyn Sheppard that they believe his story is phony.

For almost four hours three officials who helped prosecute Dr. Samuel Sheppard for his wife's 1954 murder grilled a bushy-haired convict, Donald Joseph Wedler, 23. They carried him through his life's history, mostly a tale of trouble, and tested his knowledge of the Cleveland case.

Then they announced that "we take no stock in Wedler's story whatsoever."

They prepared to pack up and return to Ohio this afternoon, leaving behind the 25th "confession" of the sensational slaying that put Dr. Sam behind bars for life.

"Not Telling Truth"

Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, Cuyahoga County, Ohio, coroner, one of the three Cleveland officials who questioned Wedler, said after the jail conference:

"As far as we are concerned he is not telling the truth.

"All his discrepancies are a thousand miles off. You can't pin him down on any specific detail. His story is full of holes all the way through."

Gerber was backed up by James McArthur, retired chief of the Cleveland detective force, another key man in the Sheppard murder investigation, and Sheriff Rodney B. Thursby of De Land.

"I sat in on the complete questioning and from the information shown here I don't see how this man can be connected with the Marilyn Sheppard murder," the sheriff said.

As the investigation blew up here, one of Sheppard's defense lawyers was rushing a photograph of Wedler to Waterloo, Iowa, where Ernest J. Kolofolias had said the man might be the blood-stained motorist who picked him up in Cleveland the night of July 4, 1954, when Marilyn was bludgeoned to death.

Boost Approved Amid Hints of President's Veto

Measure Will Pave
Way for Increase by
Other Gov't Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill to raise the pay of postal workers by $546 a year.

The $317,500,000 increase was approved on a roll call vote.

Members had approved it tentatively Monday.

The action came in the face of stern objections by the administration and amid hints that President Eisenhower "all veto the measure if it is passed by the Senate."

The across-the-board pay raise would affect 518,000 postal workers.

Backers and opponents said the measure would help pave the way for raises also for 915,000 white collar workers in other government agencies.

Eisenhower contended the pay hike for postal workers would lead to raises for other government employees. He said these would add to inflationary pressures and "impede" attempts to cut the national debt and eventually reduce taxes.

The postal bill provides a flat $546 raise, starting Sept. 1, for all post office field workers except fourth class postmaster. They would get a 12 per cent increase with a ceiling of $546.

Other congressional news:
Schools: Republican Legislative leaders quoted President Eisenhower as saying he is not entirely satisfied with the House school aid bill but would accept it. This angered Democratic supporters of the measure. They had hoped for a strong presidential appeal for passage.

Civil Rights: Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson accused Republicans and northern Democrats of filibustering in an effort to salvage the most hotly disputed part of the civil rights bill. Republican leaders earlier had told President Eisenhower that this section, Part III, faces probable defeat. It would permit the government to seek injunctions against conspiracies to deprive a person of any civil rights. Johnson, a Texan, said supporters of the bill were stalling a vote on a proposal to kill Part III. He called it "this coalition filibuster."

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee said Lloyd Klenert, secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers, charged merchandise such as brassieres, slips, radios, and a television set to the union. The committee said he did it by including these items on union-paid hotel bills.

Navy: The House Armed Services Committee approved a bill to authorize the Navy to scrap the battleship Kentucky and six other unfinished World War II ships worth a total of $123,800,000. The Navy said the ships had a junk value of only three million dollars. To convert them to atomic age uses would cost too much.

Cigarettes: A House Committee asked Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney and Dr. John R. Heller of the Public Health Service whether filters on cigarettes do any good. Both said they don't know.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DREW PEARSON Says: School Construction Bill will test White House sincerity on aid to education; Democrats discuss ways of educating Ike; Republicans sore at Eisenhower's vacillation on civil rights.

WASHINGTON—The long-delayed school construction bill comes up for a vote in the House of Representatives today or tomorrow. For almost four years it has been held up—either by Mrs. Hobby's go-slow tactics, by the Powell amendment, or by U. S. Chamber of Commerce opposition.

Passage now is going to depend on how hard the White House works for it. Officially Eisenhower is for it. Unofficially, Republican leaders intimate that Ike is less than lukewarm for it. The House Committee voted against it.

The White House lobby on Capitol Hill is more efficient than at any time since the early days of Roosevelt. Every president tries to get his program passed through Congress and uses a White House staff to do it. They buttonhole congressmen, promise postmaster ships, jobs, other favors.

The White House, when it goes into action, can be the most powerful agency in the nation, no matter who is president. And Ike has used his efficient lobbying machine to kill the Patman banking probe, stall Hell's Canyon, and to pass foreign aid.

The interesting question will be whether this same machine will be thrown into high gear to pass another part of the Eisenhower program—school construction. The bets on Capitol Hill are that it won't.

EDUCATING THE PRESIDENT
Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois sits all day crouched over his desk on the Senate floor. He listens to the debate, sometimes lifts his withered hand up on the desk to hold down a sheaf of papers.

Douglas is a Quaker who believes in peace when he can have peace, but will fight when he has to fight. He's fighting now. He enlisted in the Marines as a private at the age of 50. And he began battling for civil rights nine years ago when many Republican senators, now for civil rights, were part of the coalition which opposed.

Douglas is now fighting with the same intensity that he fought the Battle of Okinawa. And as on Okinawa he is getting wounded. Some of his old friends feel he is too intense, too uncompromising. But whether they agree with him or not, they respect him.

The other day, Douglas was talking about the apparent lack of understanding of the bill in certain quarters.

"We should debate this bill long enough," he said, "for every member of the Senate—and even the President—to understand it."

"None of us," replied Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, "will ever live that long."

REPUBLICANS FUME AT IKE
Probably at no time during his four and a half years in the White House have Republican leaders been more furious at their own president than during the civil rights battle. Their ire comes from the fact that they don't know where their leader stands.

First flare-up came about two weeks ago when Eisenhower started backing down on his previous stand for civil rights. He told a press conference he wasn't familiar with the bill, wouldn't go for some of its provisions.

This was exactly the opposite of what Ike's own leaders had been telling GOP congressmen. Ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts had long had an understanding with southern Democrats to oppose civil rights, but he went down the line for civil rights when he got word that the President wanted it.

Charley Halleck of Indiana and Les Arends of Illinois, the other GOP leaders, joined with Martin in telling GOP congressmen Ike demanded the civil rights bill, that he must have a strong bill, that it must be passed exactly as written, no comma or semicolon must be changed.

It was not easy to roll up such a heavy Republican vote, but the leaders used Ike's name all over Capitol Hill. The bill was passed as a 100-per cent Eisenhower "must."

NO "MUST" AFTER ALL

So when the man who demanded the bill said he wasn't familiar with its language and only wanted to protect voting rights, it sent the three GOP leaders scurrying to the White House telephone. Last week they saw Eisenhower, expressed their complaint personally.

This seemed to bolster the President. Afterward, July 16, he issued a much stronger statement. Vice President Nixon, worried over Ike's wishy-washy position, helped to draft the statement.

Next morning, July 17, Knowland called a meeting of all Senate Republicans to make sure there was a united front. White House vacillation had encouraged several Republicans to talk compromise with southern Democrats. They were: Mundt of South Dakota, Malone of Nevada, Williams of Delaware, and Young of North Dakota.

The world is expected to have about 5,000,000,000 people in another 50 years; today there is about half this number.

To discourage them, Senator Knowland told the closed-door GOP meeting that President Eisenhower definitely wanted the civil rights bill passed in the strong form it had come from the House, with the exception of some clarification of Section 3 on the use of force.

Senator Dirksen of Illinois made a pitch for a tough civil rights bill and praised Knowland's leadership. Senator Potter of Michigan made a fiery speech warning the Republicans not to compromise. It would be better to go down in defeat, he said, than pass a weak bill. Senators Ives and Javits of New York, with Watkins of Utah, vigorously supported him.

As the senators left their closed-door session, they picked up news bulletins on the President's latest press conference. While they had decided to back him on a tough civil rights bill, he was telling his news conference that he didn't want a tough bill.

That's why Republican leaders are furious.

BIG POWER BOOST-

MORE MILES PER GALLON, TOO

New Mobilgas Special

—super special for '57!

Proved in the Mobilgas Economy Run!

23 new 1957 stock cars averaged 20.48 miles per gallon—proof that you, too, can get top power and mileage if you keep your car in good condition, drive sensibly, use New Mobilgas Special!

This year, New Mobilgas Special has been given another big octane boost to meet the increased anti-knock requirements of today's new, high-compression cars.

And special MC₄ additives help your engine utilize this extra power to the fullest extent because they . . . 1) extend spark plug life . . . 2) control harmful pre-ignition . . . 3) reduce stalling . . . 4) help keep carburetors clean—check engine-formed gum.

That's why New Mobilgas Special gives you quick starts and warm-up, smooth idling, instant accelerator response—improved year-round performance that adds up to more miles per gallon! See your Mobil dealer.

Should you use this gasoline in your car . . . or save money with Mobilgas R at regular price? Consult this simple guide for the answer.

Payne-Alvey Marriage Vows Exchanged

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alvey

The wedding of Jewell Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Walker of Shawneetown, and Robert L. Alvey, son of Mrs. Mabel and the late Roscoe Alvey of Harrisburg, was solemnized at the Emmanuel Methodist Church in Shawneetown by the Rev. Edward Minor at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, July 19. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed before the altar lighted with burning tapers in standing candelabra attractively arranged with palms, fern and white gladioli. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Sue Stuart of Equality played a medley of bridal selections. The traditional "Here Comes the Bride" was played as the bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, Bowen Walker.

The bride was lovely in a ballerina length gown of white nylon lace over blue taffeta styled with a V shaped neckline and a very full skirt with matching light blue mitts and picture hat. She carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid and stephanotis with white satin streamers attached to a white lace fan.

Miss Helen Fox, close friend of the bride, served as maid of honor and wore a street length dress of light blue styled with puff sleeves and peter pan collar with a matching blue picture hat and black shoes. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and pink daisies with pink satin streamers. The groom and best man, Jim Billman, both wore white coats and dark trousers and red carnation boutonnieres.

John Ed Alvey of Harrisburg and Robert Wright of Shawneetown were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore a light blue dress with black and white accessories accented with a white gardenia corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress with white accessories accented with a white gardenia corsage.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church basement. The beautifully decorated three tiered wedding cake encircled with white daisies and greenery topped with a miniature bride and groom and punch were served from a table spread with a white lace cloth with a center piece of white mums and daisies, by the hostesses, Mrs. Loretta Case, Miss Mary Morris, Mrs. James McLain and Mrs. Fred Gunzel Jr. Miss Marie Stubbs was in charge of the guest book.

Advice on How To Beat the Heat

By DOG QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — How to beat the heat—sensible steps you may want to consider.

—Dress correctly. Clothing holds heat. Discard it and don a Presleyesque ensemble. Go to work wearing only sideburns and a low-slung guitar. If you co-workers get all shook up, their cool stares will help lower the office temperature.

—Talk correctly. Avoid hot words and phrases like "income tax," "brush-off pitch," "Khrushchev," and "Sonali Das Gupta." Stay careful, cool, lulling things like "vacation in Norway," "Marilyn Monroe's skin tone," "ham-mock-time in Little America," "ho-o-o hum."

—Work correctly. Sit down. Lean back. Put your feet on a desk. Stare vacantly. Avoid pursing your lips—any muscle flexing produces heat. Don't even flex your brain.

Jazz Records Cool!
—Be clever. When outdoors, take along a personal air conditioner. Tie a small record player atop your head and keep yourself drenched with modern advanced jazz. It's cool, man.

—Try psychology. Withdraw from the hot world. Try to imagine you're a cucumber in a shady glen. If your friends remark that you're turning green, you're a success. Tell 'em, it's only your chlorophyll showing.

—Be scientific. Use simple hydraulics. Keep a pail of ice water at your feet. Your blood makes a complete circulation of your body every 20 minutes. From time to time, put your toe in the pail and hold it there 20 minutes, icewatering your system.

—Be calm. Particularly at the beach, with all those Bikinis sauntering around. Excitement only makes you warmer. Save it for next winter.

Avoid Any Food
—Eat properly. Food is heat. Avoid it. Instead, take frequent baths in a solution of water and equal parts of tranquilizer and pen pills. Save the solution for repeated use.

—Drink properly. Sample the air conditioning before you patronize the bar. Select a very cold bar, slap down a dollar, and order a hot buttered rum. The bartender's reaction may send you both to the cooler.

—Be a scream. Meet a friend and say: "Know why it's warmer up in Siberia? Because Khrushy turned on the heat in the Kremlin." This kind of thing will cool off any friendship.

No Loss to Gov't In Failure of Plastic Tents

WASHINGTON — A Texas gain executive's experiment in storing surplus government wheat under huge plastic tents will cost his company nearly 13 million dollars because much of the grain spoiled, an Agriculture Department official testified today.

But the government won't lose a penny, the official said.

Walter C. Berger, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Stabilization Service, told a House Government Operations subcommittee about the department's dealings with Burrus Mills Inc., of Dallas, Tex., and its president, Jack P. Burrus.

In 1954, Berger testified, Burrus approached department officials with his plan for storing surplus government grain under plastic tents. The gain man was "enthusiastic" and "thought he'd make a lot of money out of it," Berger said.

Tent "cities" were erected near Fort Worth, Tex., and St. Joseph, Mo., Berger said. Thirty-seven million bushels of surplus government wheat were stored at the two locations during the summer of 1954.

A few days ago, Berger added, the last tents were folded with the removal of the last government wheat.

Berger said the government has already "collected" $4,706,265.95 from Burrus Mills to cover losses due to spoilage of the stored wheat by withholding that amount in storage payments due the firm. In addition, the official said, the government estimates it has a spoilage claim of about eight million dollars against the corporation. Burrus Mills has never questioned its liability, Berger said, and "the government expects payment in full in October, 1957, in accordance with . . . agreements made last year."

"No gun was ever found," Nan was saying in a low, sorrowing voice, troubled at this thing which had happened and which she did not understand, nor could put together in any acceptable pattern. "And Ben had been stabbed with a knife. They found it—the police did—under his body, and it—it was one from the clinic. It seems they are marked in some way—" She glanced questioningly at Garde, who nodded.

Every piece of clinic equipment was so marked, the initials molded or stamped on handles of plastic and steel or bone. From the X-ray unit to the tiniest probe, everything was marked.

"There were no fingerprints on it. But, when the police came, there was blood on Kurt's hands and on his handkerchief—"

"But he had examined Ben."

"Yes, but—oh, the most terrible thing, Garde, was the way no one was believed. Me or Kurt—or Valley—and not only in the courtroom. Almost immediately people—gossip, you know—tried to make something big out of the fact that Kurt and Valley had arranged to meet on the pier that night."

"Was the—er—the rendezvous made much of at the trial?"

"No," Nan said readily. "Oh, Valley said that she was going to meet Kurt, but they hardly questioned her, or him, about it. I'd have thought they would because it seemed to me that it would have lessened Kurt's reason for another fight with Ben."

"We haven't got very far with our talk," he admitted. "There still are too many things we suspect, that we surmise and guess about, without really knowing. Maybe Kurt knows and has been protecting someone."

"With his life?" Nan cried. "Oh, Garde, who...?"

"Whom would a man love enough?"

"Not me!" she cried. "We can't even think I'm that one. I was the only one of the people involved who had an iron-clad alibi for the night Ben was killed. I'd spent that whole evening on the couch in the study letting Father read aloud to me, a racy little book called Morals and Medicine. It was written by an Episcopal clergyman, and there were things in it Father thought I'd need to know, as a doctor's wife..."

They were in a comfortable glow of shared hilarity when they pulled the tarp over the cockpit, gave a last look at the snubbed lines, gathered up their sweaters and started shoulder to shoulder along the pier, exchanging glances of pleasure for a good afternoon, gayly greeting their friends, then turning their sneaked feet away from the club, toward home. As they began the climb, they could see Garde's mother, his brother and his brother's wife seated in chairs upon the lawn. It made a pretty scene, and Garde waved his hand. The distant figures waved back.

"I want Carl to meet you," Garde told Nan.

Any answer she might have made was interrupted by his mother's voice calling to them. At this distance they couldn't understand her, but as they drew closer it became evident that Mrs. Shelton was screaming out messages to Garde, word of phone calls...

"Thought you'd never get back," she smiled. "Phone rang its head off—little Rinshaw girl—hit and run—Dr. Cornel..."

"Goodness, Garde," murmured Nan in alarm.

"Take it easy," he advised. "Mother's playing to her audience. Just keep in mind that I wasn't on call today, and I'm never the only doctor in Bayard."

Nan smiled at him and still was smiling as they drew close enough for normal conversation between Following her leave she will go to a technical school in Mississippi to train for an air traffic specialist. She will be stationed at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Miss.

Besides Roberta, Mrs. Holland has two other children in the Air Force and a third one who will enter the Air Force on Aug. 12.

him and his mother. She admired the way he was very nice to Mrs. Shelton, but at the same time stayed firmly himself.

Carl was coming toward them, and Nan watched the brothers greet each other. There was an evident fondness, a liking, between them. She studied Carl; he looked like his mother, was a shorter man than Garde, blond and much more handsome. But he had Garde's same quiet way, his smiling consideration.

Nan decided that she liked this quiet young man with the sweet smile, and his handsome wife, too. She knew at once that Carl Shelton had married Dorothy for her red hair.

"I'd better make a couple of calls," Garde decided. They would have taken the Rinshaw child to the hospital—Cornel was on duty. She'd been knocked down while riding her bicycle—a hit and run driver—her head hurt—or so Beth told it. "I won't be long," he called over his shoulder.

Nan had left when Garde returned. He changed clothes and mixed drinks for Carl and Dorothy.

"Was that kid hurt bad?" Dorothy asked him.

"I imagine so. I'll go over to the hospital later. She's only four and had no business on a bike out in the street."

The table was set for dinner, food was fragrant in the oven. Garde took Dorothy's arm and led her through the dining room and into the double parlors.

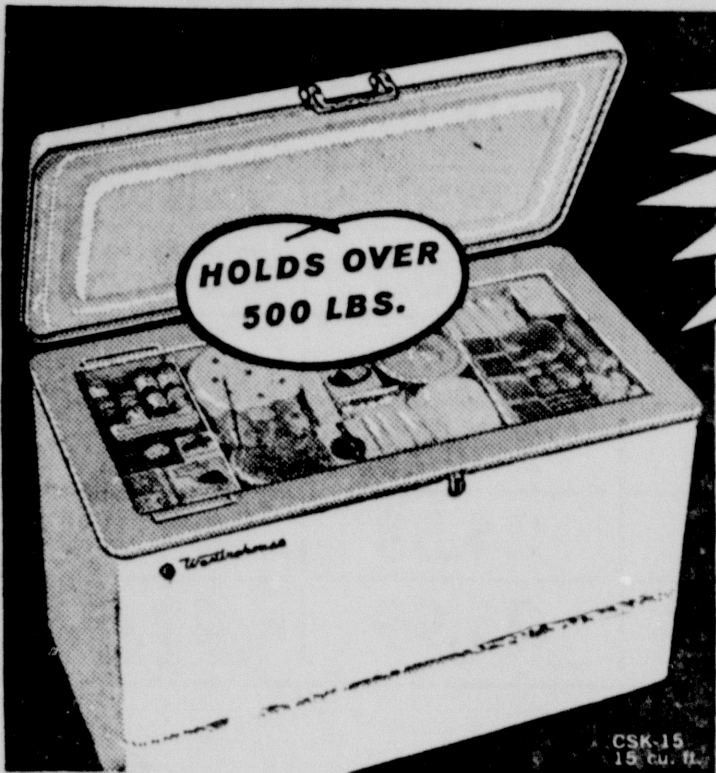

"Are you going to stay here, Garde? I mean, do you like it here?" she asked.

"Well, those are two different questions, you know. As for the answer, I came here to fill in the place of a man who'd run into some very bad luck, and I've come to like it much."

Jones pitched a four-hitter and struck out nine to help Ridgway to a 15-5 win over First Baptist. Dixon and Cottor, had three hits and Milligan, Roper and Roark had two hits each for the winners. Griffith homered and Craver, Karnes and Henshaw singled for the losers.

Buchanan hurled a three-hitter and hit a home run to lead Stain's to a victory over Galatia. Boyett and Woolard combined on the hill for Galatia, allowing four hits, walking one and fanning 11. Pickford singled twice and Mitchell homered for the other hits for the winners. Woolard, Hankins and

Jobs At Stake

Half Dozen Major League Managers Sitting on 'Hot Seat'

NEW YORK (U)—Half a dozen major league managers are sitting squarely on the "hot seat" today, knowing their jobs for 1958 depend on whether or not they can rally their clubs for that final, down-the-stretch drive.

The six pilots whose jobs are at stake are Fred Haney of the Braves, Fred Hutchinson of the Cardinals, Bob Scheffing of the Cubs, Kerby Farrell of the Indians, Jack Tighe of the Tigers and Lou Boudreau of the Athletics.

Haney was given the Milwaukee job with the expectancy he would win the National League pennant. He missed last year when it appeared he had the title in his grasp and if the Braves fail again this year, the Milwaukee front office won't wait around for a third strike.

Hutchinson's Tactics Criticized

Hutchinson has been the target recently of considerable criticism from Cardinal officials over his handling of the St. Louis' pitching staff. This could be his last season with the Cardinals and if it is, the chances are veteran shortstop Alvin Dark will be named his successor.

Scheffing inherited a thankless job when he succeeded Stan Hack as manager of the Cubs this season and even the front office didn't expect a first division finish. But 29 victories in 86 games so far do not enhance Scheffing's chances of being signed again for next year, and already there have been reports that Chuck Dressen, Charlie Grimm, or Charley Root might take over the reins next season.

Over in the American League, the Indians hired Farrell last winter following Al Lopez' departure only after they were unable to obtain several other candidates. Cleveland finished second last year and didn't argue with Lopez too much when he wanted out. Now, the Indians are fourth and Farrell's future doesn't look especially bright.

If the ax does fall on Farrell at the close of the season, look for General Manager Hank Greenberg to make another pitch for Marty Marion as manager. Eddie Stanky, now a coach with Cleveland, also would be a possibility.

Gordon to Tigers?

The new Detroit owners make no bones about the fact that they confidently expected the Tigers to wind up among the first four this year. They still have a chance to do so, but if they don't, Tighe could become the fall guy. And if he is let out, Joe Gordon might be brought in as manager.

Gordon quit as coach of the Tigers in disgust while Spike Briggs Jr., had the club, but that bit of impetuosity wouldn't hurt his chances with the present owners.

There are also signs that the paying public in Kansas City is growing a bit impatient with their seventh-place club.

Both the Kansas City fans and the front office had reason to suppose the Athletics could climb as high as sixth, and possibly even fifth, as a result of all those deals with the Yankees. But the A's appear to have all they can do to beat out Washington for seventh place and that doesn't bode well for Boudreau.

Who would replace Boudreau in the event he goes? Don't be too surprised if his successor comes from the Yankees' organization.

Junior Legion Team Wins 24th District Title

Harrisburg's Junior Legion baseball team is champion of the 24th district and this weekend will take part in the 5th Division tournament at East St. Louis.

Harrisburg took the 24th district title Sunday by beating Norris City 8-2, the game being played at Carmi.

Jerry King came through with a brilliant three-hit pitching job and allowed only one base on balls. His receiver was Ray Hassett.

The Harrisburg batters were held fairly well in check by the Norris City hurler, but the Harrisburgers were playing an aggressive, alert type of ball and romped for 8 runs and the decision.

In addition to playing a running game on attack, Harrisburg also came up with several fine fielding plays and committed only two errors.

Harrisburg scored a single tally in the second inning, then put the game on ice with a big four-run third inning. The scoring was completed for Harrisburg with a 3-run fifth.

Norris City scored two runs in the sixth on two hits and two errors.

John Wathan was the big man at bat for Harrisburg with two hits. Gary Aldridge and Ray Hassett each hit safely once.

Harrisburg will carry an 8-2 record into the Division tournament, to be staged at Jones Field, East St. Louis. Harrisburg's opening game is set for 1 p. m. Saturday.

This marks the first time in several years Harrisburg has fielded a team in Junior Legion competition. The team is sponsored by George Hart Post 167 and the uniforms were made possible by a large cash contribution from Pool Pontiac.

Yankees May Open Up Lead With 17-Game Home Stand; No Runaway Seen in National

By United Press

Is this where the New York Yankees kiss the rest of the American League goodbye?

It could be. Returning home from a fine western trip in first place by a solid 4½ games, the world champions get the chance to wipe out what's left of the 1957 AL pennant race in a 17-game home stand opening tonight with a tilt against the second-place Chicago White Sox.

There are no such "runaway" fears in the National League, however, as activity resumes. As the eastern teams go west in the NL, it's still a five-team free-for-all for first place with every prospect that it will last all season.

Two Big Questions

Two big questions feature the NL race now.

How long can the Milwaukee Braves hold their one-game league lead in the face of so many injuries? Are the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers rolling now, as their 10 wins in 12 games since the All-Star break hints?

The Braves, opening at home tonight with 10-game winner Bob Buhl facing the Philadelphia Phillies, are so shackled by injuries that they wound up their eastern swing with catcher Del Crandall playing right field. Bill Bruton has been placed on the disabled list; Hank Aaron has an injured leg; Joe Adcock is out with a broken leg, and various other Braves are limping.

The Dodgers have injury worries, too. Duke Snider's trick knee probably will force him to wear a leg brace in tonight's game in St. Louis. Rookie catcher John Roseboro did not accompany the team to St. Louis because of a thin fracture of the index finger of his right hand. He was struck on the hand by a foul tip Saturday.

The third-place Cardinals, only 1½ games behind, hope their faltering pitching reacts to this 20-game home stand like a tonic. Only Sam Jones has gone the route in the last 14 games.

Fourth-place Cincinnati, two behind, still is trying to make the best run-making machine owned by a contending team run despite the poorest ERA, 4.34. But the Redlegs have shaken off their recent seven-game losing streak to win seven of the last nine and now they're home again.

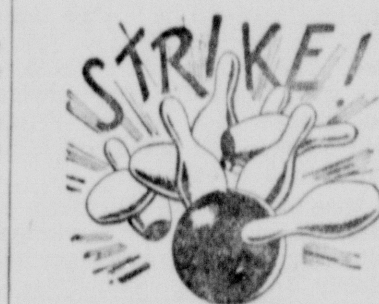

The fifth-place Phillies, 3½ behind, are fading with six losses in the last seven games and they've got to straighten themselves out on the road, a tough job.

Monday's Exhibition Results

With most teams traveling, only exhibitions were played Monday. In the annual Hall-of-Fame game at Cooperstown, N. Y., the Chicago White Sox belted 17 hits, including an eight-run third inning, to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 14-3. In an all-Ohio tussle at Cleveland, the Indians avenged an earlier setback by beating Cincinnati, 5-1, as Rocky Colavito and George Strickland hit homers.

The Milwaukee Braves returned to their old home in Boston and trounced the Red Sox, 13-4, as Ed Mathews and Del Crandall each hit a pair of homers. And the Detroit Tigers beat Charleston of the American Association, 5-3.

Jockey Conn McCreary Hurt

NEW YORK (U)—Conn McCreary, veteran 36-year-old jockey, said today he expected to be riding again "fairly soon" despite a fractured right leg he suffered at Belmont Park Monday.

McCreary was removed to Physicians Hospital after he was spilled backwards while on Simon The Bold in the starting gate before the fifth race.

Doctors said his leg was fractured just above the ankle but they did not estimate how long it would be before he was able to ride again.

Right Guess

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(UP)—A deputy sheriff stopped a "suspicious" car at a blockade set up after a bank robbery. "Whatcha got in the trunk?" he asked the two occupants. "Tents," the driver replied. The deputy saw a bag in the back seat and asked what was in it.

"Stakes."

"Whatcha trying to be—Boy Scouts?" asked the deputy. The men explained they were Boy Scout executives on their way to a camp with equipment.

Rains Relieve Illinois Heat; Report 4 Deaths

By United Press

Cooling rains splashed across the state ending a short-lived heat wave Monday and left at least four dead in their wake.

Rain-slick pavements in the Chicago area were blamed for the deaths of Mrs. Virginia Edmondson, Chicago, and her infant son Keith, in an auto-truck crash on U. S. 45. Mrs. Edmondson's husband Ronald, 22, was injured seriously in the crash.

Ziva Alkxich, 50, Chicago, was killed and four other persons injured in a two-car crash during a blinding rain squall on U. S. 6 about three miles west of Joliet.

Charles Summers, 34, Chicago, was killed and a passenger in his car injured when Summers swerved off South Lake Shore Drive and struck a tree near the Museum of Natural History during a heavy shower.

The rains in the Chicago area caused some flooding in areas hard hit by a record deluge 11 days ago but health and sanitation officials said damage would be "minor."

Several families were forced from their homes in the East Bluffs section of Peoria because of the heavy rains locally but there were no reports of injuries.

The Weather Bureau reported 1.11 inches of rain at Moline, 1.57 inches at Burlington and 1.03 inches at Midway Airport, Chicago.

Temperatures dropped as much as 30 degrees as the rain-carrying cool front pushed through the area from Canada.

The outlook for the next 24 hours throughout the state was for clearing skies and generally mild temperatures.

Clinton Case Goes to Jury

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A jury of white mountaineers, warned not to consider the issue of segregation versus integration but whether a lawful order had been violated, received the case of 10 Clinton residents and John Kasper at 10:20 a.m. c.d.t. today.

In a 54-minute charge, U. S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor told the 10 men and 2 women on the jury it could convict all 11 defendants or acquit all. But to convict any one of the 10 Clintonians, it had to convict Kasper also as the "hub" of a conspiracy to prevent integration of Clinton, Tenn., High School.

By the same token, Kasper could not be convicted alone, said the judge. He scarcely paused for breath as he went up and down the legal issues in the case, first local enforcement test of the Supreme Court's 1954 ruling against public school segregation.

Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca to Team on TV Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca will team up again on TV after a three-year separation that proved almost disastrous to their careers, it was learned today.

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co. said a half hour TV show for next winter was under discussion with the stars' agents. The show will follow the format of "The Show of Shows," the program on which Miss Coca and Caesar mugged their way to fame until Caesar decided to strike out on his own in 1954.

Cousin of Mrs. Louis Gall Dies in Ohio

Miss Pearl, Sterling, 80, former resident of the West Union community in White county, died in Wooster, Ohio, Monday. The body will be received by the Kittinger funeral home in Carmi Wednesday morning, and will lie in state there until the funeral at 3 p.m. Thursday. The funeral will be held in the West Union United Presbyterian church, Rev. Kermit Prince will officiate and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Miss Sterling was the cousin of Mrs. Louis Gall of Harrisburg. Miss Sterling, a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, had been for many years a Presbyterian missionary in the mountains of Tennessee.

Grandson of Griff Froman Recovering From Heart Operation

Griff (Skippy) Froman, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Griff Froman of Lansing, Ill., whose grandfather, Griff Froman, lives here, recently underwent a heart operation at Billings hospital in Chicago.

The youth, who will be a sixth grade pupil this fall, is recovering and a story in the Hammond Times carries a letter of thanks he wrote to the Times.

The letter asks the newspaper to thank all the friends and neighbors who bought him a portable television set and for the prayers said in his behalf.

A picture of Skippy accompanies the letter.

Reach Agreement On Goodyear Pact

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United Rubber Workers Union and Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. negotiators reached agreement on a new contract Monday night, averting a strike of 24,000 workers.

Both sides agreed on a new general wage contract calling for a 15-cent hourly pay raise package for Goodyear workers.

The agreement, reached two hours before a midnight deadline, must be ratified by the workers. It is expected to set the wage pattern in the rubber industry this year. Other rubber companies face July 30 strike deadlines.

Hopes for Progress

Time Running Out on Efforts For Nuclear Controls: Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles cautioned Monday night that time may be running out on efforts to place nuclear weapons under international controls.

"Time is not unlimited," he said in a nationwide radio-TV address. "Each year that passes without agreement adds to the practical difficulty of achieving adequate limitation and control."

He said, however, that "some slight progress" has been made in current London disarmament negotiations with Russia and there is reason to hope for more.

Arms Development Continues

Until some firm agreement is reached, Dulles said, the United States intends to develop the best weapons it can and to keep its system of security alliances intact.

Dulles' address, approved in advance by President Eisenhower, reviewed U. S. disarmament proposals and evaluated progress so far at the four-month-old London negotiations among the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

The speech was designed to spike recent Soviet efforts to pin on the West any blame if the London talks break down.

A Detailed Picture

Officials said Dulles also felt it was time to give the American people a detailed picture of U. S. disarmament proposals. His report was more cautious than a British white paper last week.

Authority Upholds Two In Dispute with Mayor

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—The Mount Vernon Airport Authority today refused to heed the firing of two of its members by Mayor Virgil T. Bailey who charged that the men had violated conflict of interest laws.

The authority announced the results of a hearing it held on the dispute.

It said its investigation indicated that neither Clarence E. Brehm nor Frank Smoot "was seeking any personal or financial gain."

which said "substantial advances" have been made.

Dulles assured Americans the United States is not about to give up its nuclear weapons altogether. He said "no one is thinking of disarming the United States or the Soviet Union" but that negotiators are seeking ways of controlling armaments to "reduce the danger of armed attack."

"... Unless international procedures are now devised to bring nuclear weapons under control, the problem may soon become totally unmanageable and we must anticipate that immense destructive power would come into the hands of those who might be quite irresponsible," he said.

Trucker, 2 Girls He Stopped to Help, Slain by Gunman slayer of trucker J. D. Cantrell, 26, Carlsbad, N. M., and two Hobbs, N. M., girls, identified as Barbara Lemon and Dorothy Gibson, both in their 20s.

The trucker's body, punctured with five 22 caliber bullet wounds, was found by the side of his truck. The bodies of the girls were found about 35 miles away where the kidnaper apparently took them after shooting the trucker.

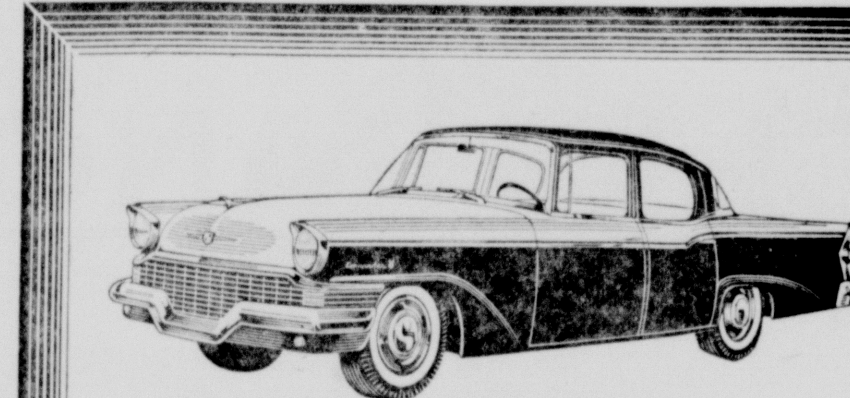

A car was parked near the truck. Authorities said it belonged to the two Hobbs girls. The car was jacked up and one tire flat.

Officers theorized the trucker stopped to help fix the flat, and that the gunman then shot the trucker and took the two girls.
